M. PROBLEM STATEMENT (SEE INSTRUCTIONS AND USE ADDITIONAL PAGES IF NECESSARY.)

The Bloomington Police Department has funded a D.A.R.E. program, with the assignment of an officer full-time to that program for several years. The department has solicited funds from area businesses and organizations to purchase supplies and equipment. The program's success has lead to community demand to enlarge and expand the program. Department funds cannot be stretched enough to accomplish that goal of expanding into the high schools.

The department is willing to assign three more officers to the D.A.R.E. program to enable expansion into the upper grades. The department will pay the overtime that will be engendered when these officers actually teach within the local school system. The department will continue to raise funds from the community for supplies for the expanded program. Unfortunately, there are not enough funds to pay for the training of these new officers and the teachers within the local school system who are required to make this expansion work. The increased number of students reached by the program will increase the cost of supplies; working in more than one classroom at a time (with more than one D.A.R.E. officer now) will mean duplicating some of the necessary equipment used in the program. The department and the community cannot afford to expand the program and continue its high quality without monetary assistance.

During 1988 the Monroe County Community School Corporation (which we serve with our D.A.R.E. program) completed a drug survey of its students. Alcohol abuse, use of marijuana, amphetamines, and various inhalants were all serious problems (see Attachment A, Substance Use/Abuse Survey). The final page of the report detail the young age at which drug and alcohol abusers began using these substances. Even more alarming was the fact that high school students believed marijuana laws should be more lenient, or that a high percentage believed a person who used drugs was NOT in need of help. The community schools, from early to older ages, have students in dire need of the D.A.R.E. program. The survey is graphic evidence of that. We have tried to keep pace with the need to educate and provide skills to combat drug use for our students; we cannot afford to keep up without help.

Also attached is a copy of the D.A.R.E. pre- and post-test developed and administered in the elementary schools by our DARE officer (see Attachments B and C). Attachment D is a typical score sheet compiled for one elementary school for sixth grade students. As can be readily seen the improvement in knowledge and in skill development to resist the use of drugs is dramatic and encouraging. Our program works; it simply cannot monetarily keep up with need and demand.

There is little need to rehash the benefits of the D.A.R.E. program as a concept. The program works, here in Bloomington as elsewhere. The problem is in finding the resources to expand the program to fill an obvious demand while still funding every other aspect of the department that must be funded. Without some assistance the D.A.R.E. program in the Monroe County Community School Corporation cannot continue to be the valuable asset to the community that it now is.

N. CRITICAL ELEMENTS

CRITICAL ELEMENTS

Joint planning already is an integral part of our current DARE program. Attachment E is a letter from the Assistant Superintendent of the school system to the department. It outlines the support the school system has for the program, and the system's desire to see the program expanded. Attachment F is further evidence of that joint planning effort; it is a letter from the Superintendent expressing his commitment to train teachers to participate in an expanded, high school portion of the DARE program. The DARE program is the only such program of its type within the school system, and the teacher/school support is overwhelming.

Officer James Graft has been the school liaison officer since our program was started. Attachment E refers to his skills, teaching ability, and the esteem in which he is held within the school system. Attachments G and H are letters from the Los Angeles Police Department certifying Officer Graft as a qualified graduate of the DARE training program sponsored by that department. Attachments I through M are the classes, courses, and schools in which the expanded DARE program already is scheduled to be taught. The Bloomington program has a qualified, certified instructor scheduled to be in the classroom every day of the school year. Officer Graft puts on Parent Education Evenings for each school involved with the DARE program. Graduation exercises are held for each class, with presenters including such notables as Governor Evan Bayh and current Miss Indiana, Kim Williams (see enclosed photographs). continued on Attachment N...

O. PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

ACTIVITY

The department will furnish any data, information, or questionnaires developed by any agency overseeing the DARE effort. Whatever performance data is eventually requested by the State of Indiana will be forwarded by the Project Director. If it is necessary or requested testing or surveys will be made a part of the regular curriculum.

We currently do the pre- and post-tests shown in earlier attachments. Those will be forwarded from each classroom or school if desired, and those tests already are administered as part of our program.

Attachment N

Officer Graft and four teachers from the Monroe County Community School Corporation already are scheduled to spend a week with the Los Angeles Police Department in April of 1991 for enhanced DARE training. Officer Graft will become even more qualified and proficient, and the three teachers will be the required support personnel within the schools to continue the DARE effort from the school perspective. Officers Marty Deckard, Donna Knox, and Jeffrey Canada of the Bloomington Police Department already are scheduled to attend a two-week DARE training program in Illinois to prepare them to assist Officer Graft in expanding the current program. This will insure an even larger presence within the school system for the DARE program. All officers will be formally certified to build on Officer Graft's efforts. Officer Graft has no other duties within the department; his efforts as School Liaison Officer are not divided. He will serve as the Project and Program Coordinator, and he has the time to do so within the department.

Attachment O is a computer printout of the DARE Fund of the police department for 1990. There is another $1,000 donation from the local Fraternal Order of Police not shown on the form, but the form does demonstrate the funding efforts of the department and Officer Graft in keeping the program on a healthy basis. The department's commitment is evident in supplying Officer Graft full-time to the program, along with the time to train an additional three officers now. Funding does not allow the department to expand the program without outside aid; the commitment of the department to this program should not, however, be in doubt.
